CHANGES IN PRESENTATION OF U.S. IMPORT STATISTICS

EFFECTIVE 1964

Effective with the data for February 1964, significant changes have been inaugurated by the Bureau of the Census in the compilation and publication of import data which are of special interest to users of data formerly issued in report series FT 110 and FT 120. These reports have been consolidated and redesigned and will be issued in report series FT 125. This brochure describes the scope and arrangement of the new report, furnishes a copy of Schedule A (Revised), and announces the availability of certain classes of data by special subscription. This material is presented as follows:

Changes in Presentation of United States Import Statistics Effective 1964

General Explanation

Import Statistics to be Available on New Basis

Effective with February 1964 statistics, the basic import data, initially compiled in terms of the commodity classifications of the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated (TSUSA), will be published by the Bureau of the Census in printed reports presenting current month and cumulative year-to-date information in a rearranged commodity system convenient for general analytical use and for comparison with trade data of other countries. At the same time, a new subscription service is being inaugurated to make the detailed TSUSA commodity by country information which was formerly printed readily available to users who wish to obtain this complete detail for the particular commodities in which they are interested.

The Plan for Publication of Monthly Data

Highlights of the changes represented by the new publication plan for the presentation of the monthly import statistics are as follows:

(1) A new publication, Report FT 125, United States Imports of Merchandise for Consumption, will include both the commodity by country and the country by commodity arrangements of the imports for consumption data under one cover. It will replace Report FT 110, United States Imports of Merchandise for Consumption, Commodity by Country of Origin, and Report FT 120, United States Imports of Merchandise for Consumption, Country of Origin by SITC Commodity Group, both of which will be discontinued.

(2) Cumulative year-to-date information, as well as information for the current month, will be presented in Report FT 125.

(3) Commodity by country information will be presented in Report FT 125 in terms of approximately 2,200 seven-digit commodity classifications, under a commodity classification system (Schedule A, Revised) based upon the Standard International Trade Classification, Revised (SITC).[1] The complete detail in terms of the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated (TSUSA) will not be included in the new publication, but will continue to be readily available, as described in (5) below.

(4) Data in terms of 4-, 3-, 2-, and 1-digit groupings of the SITC will be presented in Report FT 125 for individual countries, and for groupings of countries representing major trading areas.

(5) The complete TSUSA by country of origin detail, formerly included in Report FT 110 within the framework of the 3-digit SITC classifications, will now be available for each current month in straight TSUSA classification number order. It will be made available in the form of copies of excerpts from an unpublished tabulation, IM 146, at a nominal cost for individual TSUSA subparts. The excerpts will show both imports for consumption and general import data. The complete tabulation IM 146 showing country of origin detail for all 10,000 TSUSA classifications will be available for reference use, without charge, at various principal cities throughout the country.

The Plan for Annual Publications

A new plan for the publication of annual import data has also been adopted, to be effective for 1964 statistics. Annual data in the Report FT 125 arrangements will automatically appear as cumulative year-to-date information in the December issue of that report. In addition, a separate annual TSUSA by country of origin publication is planned, which will present the data on both imports for consumption and general imports in TSUSA commodity number order. Finally, annual imports for consumption data will also be published in an arrangement based on the Standard Industrial Classification product code. In this arrangement, the data will be summarized into approximately 2,000 commodity classifications for convenient comparison with data on United States production.

The New Monthly Publication, Report FT 125

The new Report FT 125 will contain data on United States imports for consumption in several different arrangements, as follows:

Table 1 - World totals for each 3-, 2-, and 1-digit SITC classification (without country of origin detail), current month and cumulative year-to-date.

Table 2 - Data for each of the approximately 2,000 7-digit Schedule A, Revised, items within the SITC framework, in complete country of origin detail, current month and cumulative year-to-date.

Table 3 - Major trading area with 4-digit Schedule A, Revised, totals and 3-, 2-, and 1-digit SITC totals for each area, current month and cumulative year-to-date.

Table 4 - Country of origin with 4-digit Schedule A, Revised, totals and 3-, 2-, and 1-digit SITC totals for each country, current month and cumulative year-to-date.

Sample sheets illustrating the arrangement of the data in the new publication are being furnished with this explanation. (Annex A)

Since Report FT 125 is being inaugurated with statistics for the month of February 1964 and contains cumulative data, January 1964 data for any given segment of trade can be derived by subtracting February figures from the corresponding cumulative total.

[1] United Nations Statistical Papers, Series M, No. 34, 1961.

The classification system used in the report (Schedule A, Revised, Statistical Classification of Commodities Imported Into the United States, based on the Standard International Trade Classification, Revised) was worked out by the Bureau of the Census to provide approximately 2,200 useful summarizations of the detailed commodity data originally compiled in terms of the TSUSA. In general, the estimated magnitude of trade was used as a basis for determining the extent of the summarization in the various commodity areas. Within the limits of the convertibility of the TSUSA to the SITC, actual SITC classifications and summarizations are reflected in Schedule A, Revised. New classifications within the SITC framework have been set up in other cases. The details of Schedule A, Revised, are not considered final, and users are invited to send comments or requests for changes to the Foreign Trade Division, Bureau of the Census, by October 1, 1964. These will be considered in connection with possible modifications of Schedule A, Revised, to be effective with January 1965 statistics. Separately, there is attached a more complete explanation of Schedule A, Revised, and its relation to TSUSA and to the SITC, Revised. Conversion tables are supplied with the explanation, showing for each of the revised Schedule A classifications the TSUSA numbers which it includes, and for each TSUSA number the revised Schedule A classification number in which it is included in Report FT 125. (Annex B)

Present subscribers to Reports FT 110 and FT 120 will automatically receive Report FT 125, effective with the February 1964 report, and continuing until the expiration of their subscription period, at which time they will be sent a renewal notice at the new rate. Because of the change-over, the release date for the FT 125 for the month of February may be later than the expected schedule for later months. The subscription price for Report FT 125 will be $8.00 per year, domestic, $2.00 additional for foreign mailing, and $1.00 per single copy. Back issues will not be furnished and new subscriptions will be entered to start on a current basis. Subscriptions to Report FT 125 should be addressed to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Monthly TSUSA by Country Information for Reference Use

Tabulations for each month showing the full 10,000 TSUSA classifications by country of origin for both imports for consumption and general imports, identified as IM 146, will be available for reference use, without charge, at the following locations throughout the country:

Department of Commerce Field Offices in Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, and Seattle.

Monthly TSUSA by Country Information on a Subscription Basis

Monthly excerpts from tabulation IM 146 in the form of TSUSA subparts (or TSUSA parts, in the case of parts which are not subdivided in the TSUSA) will be supplied by the Bureau of the Census on a subscription basis. A sample report (Annex C) is attached to illustrate the content and arrangement of the excerpts which will be furnished.

The subscription price per TSUSA subpart (or part) is $8.25 for the February-December 1964 period (75¢ per month), except that for a few TSUSA subparts which contain a large number of TSUSA numbers the price is slightly higher. The order blank which is enclosed (Annex D) identifies these longer subparts and gives the subscription price for each. The TSUSA number range for each subpart (or part) is shown in the order blank, for the convenience of users in identifying the particular subparts or parts in which they are interested.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The conversion of the United States import commodity classifications in the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated into a classification system (Schedule A, Revised) based on the Standard International Trade Classification, Revised, was prepared by the staff of the Foreign Trade Division under the supervision of the Bureau of the Census Committee on Recasting United States Import Commodity Classification. Members of the committee are:

Harold T. Goldstein, Chairman, Economic Research and Analysis Division
Willis K. Jordan, Industry Division
Shirley S. Dungee, Foreign Trade Division

Members of the Foreign Trade Division who made significant contributions to the conversion are:

Ralph C. Hamilton, Chief, Minerals and Metals Branch
John Anglin, Chief, Food Animal and Wood Branch
Emanuel A. Lipscomb, Chief, Textiles Branch
Jeanne M. Boocks, Chief, Machinery and Vehicles Branch

SCHEDULE A, REVISED

Statistical Classification of Commodities Imported Into the United States

A Conversion of the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated to a Classification System Based on the Standard International Trade Classification, Revised

January 1964

EXPLANATION

1. Introduction

The objective in constructing Schedule A, Revised, was twofold: first, to provide a summarization of the data for the 10,000 Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated classifications into groupings which would be meaningful in terms of commodities important in the United States import trade; and second, to provide data in terms of the Standard International Trade Classification outline which are comparable, insofar as possible, to the foreign trade statistics compiled by other trading nations.

The detail shown in Schedule A, Revised, was therefore determined on the basis of the estimated magnitude of trade in the various commodities of the TSUSA arranged within the framework of the SITC.

Many judgements had to be made in relating TSUSA classifications to SITC classifications for pusposes of constructing Schedule A, Revised. The most troublesome problem involved TSUSA classifications covering commodities falling in more than one SITC classification. The necessary decisions had to be somewhat arbitrary, and they were made solely with the objective of constructing a classification system for the presentation of the import statistics. Any authoritative statement of the relation between the classifications in the Tariff Schedules of the United States and those in the SITC will come from the United States Tariff Commission. Moreover, even for the presentation of import statistics, Schedule A, Revised, is being adopted for current use without necessarily being considered final in its present form. Users of the statistics are invited to send comments or requests for changes to the Foreign Trade Division, Bureau of the Census, after experience with the statistics in this form. These will be considered in connection with possible modification of Schedule A, Revised, to be effective with January 1965 statistics. In order to receive consideration, requests for changes should be received by October 1, 1964.

2. General Description of Schedule A, Revised, and Its Relation to the TSUSA

Schedule A, Revised, re-arranges and summarizes the approximately 10,000 commodity classifications of the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated, into approximately 2,200 seven-digit Schedule A, Revised, classifications within the framework of the Standard International Trade Classification, Revised. The numbering system provides for meaningful summarizations of commodity coverage at the 5-, 4-, 3-, 2- and 1-digit levels of the numbering system. The first five digits are SITC codes to the full extent considered possible within the limits of the convertibility of the TSUSA to the SITC. The sixth and seventh digits were added to provide more detailed breakdowns where the volume of United States import trade appeared to justify such detail.

Part 2 of this paper shows the outline of Schedule A, Revised, with abbreviated descriptions for the 7-digit detailed classifications and for the 1-, 2-, 3-, and 4-digit levels of summarization. The descriptions are preliminary, and further work will be done during the year to improve them. Descriptions at the 5-digit level of summarization are not furnished in Part 2 since 5-digit summarizations of data are not being presented in Report FT 125[1].

Part 2 of this paper also shows the assignments of TSUSA numbers at the 7-digit level of Schedule A, Revised, thus providing definitions of the new classifications in TSUSA terms.

Appendix a, showing TSUSA assignments to Schedule A, Revised, in TSUSA number order, is presented for the convenience of users who wish to locate individual TSUSA numbers in the new classification system.

3. Some TSUSA Number Assignments to 3-digit SITC Groups Changed by Schedule A, Revised

For the period September 1963 through March 1964, the United States import statistics were issued in terms of TSUSA codes within 3-digit SITC group codes. With the September 1963 statistics, a correlation between the SITC group numbers and TSUSA numbers was furnished. The adoption of Schedule A, Revised, has necessitated some changes in the TSUSA number assignments shown in that correlation. Some of these changes were made to make a more appropriate assignment of the TSUSA codes to the SITC group codes; others resulted from the need for assigning to a 3-digit SITC number some combinations of 5-digit (or, in some cases, 4-digit) SITC numbers which crossed 3-digit group lines.

In order that users may be aware of differences between the data previously released for these 3-digit codes (September 1963 through March 1964) and the data to be published under Schedule A, Revised, for the same 3-digit codes in 1964, Appendix b lists all of the 3-digit codes for which the assignment of TSUSA numbers was changed, and shows the revisions in the TSUSA assignments for each. In many cases, the change in individual TSUSA number assignments does not significantly affect the total value for the broadly summarized SITC group[2]. Users who wish a comparable series of the 3-digit SITC group data for the 12 months of 1964 should obtain a new January 1964 total for all the 3-digit groups listed in Appendix b by subtracting the February total for each such group from the cumulative year-to-date total in Report FT 125. The January figure thus obtained should be substituted for the corresponding SITC group total shown in the January reports FT 110 and FT 120 and in the January reference tabulations. For February and March 1964, the 3-digit SITC totals appearing in the FT 125 should be substituted for any totals obtained from February and March reference tabulations, since these were prepared in terms of the September 1963 conversion. Beginning with April 1964 statistics, the new conversion will be used in preparing all tables.

[1]Users may total the data for 7-digit classifications having a common first five digits to obtain summaries at this level.

4. Comparability of Coverage Between Schedule A, Revised, and SITC

It is recognized that many subscribers use United States import statistics independently of any comparisons with data compiled by other nations under the SITC. The data compiled under the Schedule A, Revised, classifications, can be used in this way, and for such use of the data no understanding of the relationship of Schedule A, Revised, to the SITC is necessary. The following explanation is included here in the interest of avoiding possible misconception as to the precision which was possible in relating TSUSA classifications to the SITC, and for the information and guidance of those who wish to make comparisons of United States import data with the foreign trade data of other countries. It will also be helpful, perhaps, as a guide to an understanding of the system for users who may wish to recommend changes in Schedule A, Revised.

Complete and precise presentation of United States import statistics in terms of the SITC is not possible, since the statistics are originally collected in terms of the TSUSA, and the extent to which TSUSA classifications can be equated to SITC classifications is limited. However, the relationship between the two classification systems can be sufficiently established to permit a rearrangement of the TSUSA classifications within the SITC framework which will provide reasonable over-all comparability between the two classification systems at summarized levels, and reasonable comparability, for a substantial portion of United States import trade, at more detailed levels.

A precise understanding of the relationship of Schedule A, Revised, to the SITC at any level of classification can be obtained only by reference to the definitions of the TSUSA classifications included. Establishing a relationship in this way involves many complexities, but users interested in such a relationship for only a few classifications may wish to refer to Part 2 of this paper for the numbers of the TSUSA classifications included in the various classification levels of Schedule A, Revised, in order to make comparisons with SITC coverage. Appendix a, showing the Schedule A, Revised, classification to which each TSUSA number is assigned, may also be helpful in such a study.

[2]However, for the following 3-digit groups, the January totals on the new basis differ by $1 million or more from the previously issued totals:

051	284	561	711
053	331	629	732
271	332	696	893
283	533	698	897

In a few other cases, differences less than $1 million were large in percentage terms.

The following information may be useful as a general guide to the degree of comparability with SITC, and may serve, as well, as an aid to understanding the manner in which Schedule A, Revised, was constructed.

At the 1-, 2-, and 3-digit levels, the numbering system of Schedule A, Revised, is identical with that of the SITC. The commodity coverage is not always identical, but it is believed that for most statistical purposes the coverage at the 1-, 2- and 3-digit levels can be considered essentially comparable with that of the SITC. Reasonable comparability for statistical purposes can also be expected, in most cases, when 5-digit Schedule A, Revised, numbers are identical with SITC numbers. At the 4-digit level the retention of a SITC number in Schedule A, Revised, indicates similarity of coverage, but, for the reasons explained under the heading numbered 5 below, the degree of comparability may in some cases be somewhat less at the 4-digit level for identical numbers in the two systems than at the 5-digit level.

The abbreviated alphabetic descriptions in Schedule A, Revised, reflect the TSUSA coverage and may differ substantively from SITC descriptions even where the numbers are identical. The user can make his own judgement, in these cases, as to the statistical importance of the difference by referring to the TSUSA inclusions. Sometimes, however, differences may exist even though the number is identical and the description has not been substantively changed.

When a non-SITC number is used as the fourth or fifth digit of a Schedule A, Revised, number, comparability of coverage with any given SITC classification at that level should not be expected, and there will be comparability only with combinations of SITC classifications. In a few cases, however, SITC numbers were changed without changes in coverage in order to obtain a logical numbering sequence in Schedule A, Revised. Appendix c(1) lists the Schedule A, Revised, numbers with fourth or fifth digits different from the SITC, and shows the corresponding SITC coverage. Classifications renumbered in Schedule A, Revised, without significant difference in coverage from an individual SITC classification are, of course, those for which only one SITC number is shown in Appendix c(1).

The 7-digit classifications of Schedule A, Revised, were derived from the SITC by:

(a) adopting 5-digit SITC[3] without adjustment and adding two zeros to form a 7-digit code;

(b) adopting 5-digit SITC and making breakdowns to more detailed 7-digit classifications within the original 5-digit SITC;

(c) combining 5-digit SITC without further breakdowns; and assigning an arbitrary 5-digit code with two zeros added;

(d) combining 5-digit SITC classifications, assigning an arbitrary 5-digit code, and then making breakdowns to more detailed 7-digit classifications within the arbitrary 5-digit code.

Approximately one-half of the 1,312 five-digit classifications in the SITC fall in (a) and (b) above. As explained earlier, reasonable comparability between SITC and Schedule A, Revised, classifications can be expected in these cases. Since two or more 7-digit classifications in Schedule A, Revised, may bear the same first five digits (the SITC item number) it is the sum of the coverage for all of the 7-digit classifications having the same first five digits which is comparable to the coverage of the 5-digit SITC item number. Although an actual measure is not available, it is believed that a very substantial portion of United States import trade is covered-by this half of the SITC classifications.

[3]For 4-digit SITC codes not broken down into 5-digit classifications in the SITC, the SITC 5-digit code referred to here is the 4-digit code without a zero added.

5. The Disposition in Schedule A, Revised, of SITC Classifications

In addition to the above discussion of the degree of comparability of coverage between Schedule A, Revised, classifications and those of the SITC, some analysts may be interested in knowing the disposition within the Schedule A, Revised, framework of the SITC classifications which were not retained, as such. These were SITC 4- and 5-digit classifications where the TSUSA numbers which covered the content of the SITC number also included significant content which did not belong in the SITC number. Appendices c(1) and c(2) show the disposition of these numbers in Schedule A, Revised, in the order of Schedule A, Revised, and in SITC number order, respectively. It should be remembered, however, that the Schedule A, Revised, numbers in Appendix c, like other Schedule A, Revised, numbers, can be precisely defined only in terms of the TSUSA numbers included (Part 2). Appendix c is a guide to the relationship with SITC, but it is not necessarily definitive.

It will be noted that the problems represented by the lack of comparability between the TSUSA and the SITC affected the Schedule A, Revised, numbering system at both the 4- and the 5-digit level. Sometimes combinations of 5-digit SITC numbers within the same 4-digit SITC code would match groupings of TSUSA numbers. Such combinations of SITC items were made in Schedule A under arbitrarily assigned 5-digit numbers which retained the first four digits common to both items. Combinations of this type did not disturb Schedule A, Revised, comparability with SITC at the 4-digit or more summarized levels.

However, in some cases, a sufficiently accurate match of combined SITC classifications with groupings of TSUSA numbers could not be obtained within the 4-digit SITC structure. In these cases, it was necessary to match TSUSA numbers with combinations of SITC numbers from different 4-digit groupings. If the content of such combinations belonged primarily in one of the 4-digit subgroups from which the combined SITC numbers originated, an arbitrary 5-digit Schedule A, Revised, number with the first four digits of that subgroup was assigned. This resulted in changes in the coverage of the subgroups from which the combined classifications originated, as well as the subgroups to which the combinations were assigned, but in many cases the SITC 4-digit subgroup numbers were retained in Schedule A, Revised. Appendix d lists the 4-digit Schedule A, Revised, subgroups having numbers identical with SITC but having coverage different from the correspondingly numbered SITC subgroup because of these combinations. Like Appendix c, Appendix d is merely a guide, and is not intended to be definitive.

If a combination of SITC numbers which was needed to obtain a match with TSUSA numbers was such that it could not be reasonably identified with an existing 4-digit SITC subgroup, it was assigned to the correct (or most appropriate) 3-digit SITC group and given a Schedule A, Revised, number within that group with arbitrary fourth and fifth digits. In a few cases, combinations were made of SITC numbers originating in different 1- or 2-digit sections or divisions, and the combination was given a number in the most appropriate 3-digit group.

A separate guide to the resulting modifications in coverage at the 3-digit level and above is not furnished, but Appendix c(1) may be consulted to locate combinations of SITC numbers with different first, second, or third digits.

In addition to the combinations required for purposes of converting the TSUSA classifications, as described above, some combinations of SITC 5-digit numbers under arbitrary Schedule A, Revised, numbers were made in Schedule A, Revised, where United States imports were either insignificant value-wise or non-existent. Such combinations were practically always made within the next higher levels of classification (4-digit or 3-digit). These combinations are shown, along with the others, in Appendix c(1) and c(2).

6. Description of the SITC

The following description of the SITC is furnished as of possible interest to users of United States import statistics who may not be familiar with it. The Standard International Trade Classification (SITC), Revised, is published by the United Nations as Statistical Papers, Series M, No. 34, 1961. In addition, Commodity Indexes for the Standard International Trade Classification, Revised, were published by the United Nations in 1963 as Statistical Papers, Series M, No. 38. Volume One of the Indexes shows, in SITC number order, the commodity inclusions for each classification and Volume Two provides an alphabetic commodity Index to the SITC classifications.

The SITC arranges all commodities in sections and subdivisions thereof at 1-, 2-, 3-, 4-, and 5-digit levels of classification. There are 10 sections (first digit), 56 divisions (first 2 digits) 177 groups (first 3 digits), 626 subgroups (first 4 digits), and 1,312 items (5 digits). Optional subheadings account for a net addition of 59 classifications at the 5-digit level. The system is flexible, so that aggregates at each higher level may be obtained by dropping the last digit of the more detailed code. The 1,312 basic items may, of course, be further subdivided for more detailed classification as desired.

Each of the original 5-digit SITC classifications falls within one and only one classification of the Brussels Tariff Nomenclature (BTN). The BTN and its compendium of explanatory notes provide a basic definition for each of the SITC classifications, which has been incorporated into the SITC system by the United Nations in the Commodity Indexes (Series M, No. 38) referred to above.

UNITED STATES IMPORTS OF MERCHANDISE FOR CONSUMPTION AND GENERAL IMPORTS OF MERCHANDISE

TSUSA Number by Unit Control by Country of Origin
(Excludes Quantity Only Items)

_____ 19___

COVERAGE: Imports for consumption are a combination of imports for immediate consumption and withdrawals for consumption from bonded warehouses.* General imports are a combination of imports for immediate consumption and entries into bonded warehouses.* The statistics include merchandise imported by government agencies as well as by private importers, but exclude American goods returned by the United States armed forces for their own use. United States trade with Puerto Rico and with United States possessions and trade between the United States possessions is not included in this report, but imports into Puerto Rico from foreign countries are included. Merchandise shipped in transit through the United States from one foreign country to another, when documented as such through United States Customs, is not included. See the foreword to Foreign Commerce and Navigation of the United States for a more complete statement on coverage.

COMMODITY CLASSIFICATION: Effective September 1963, the import statistics are compiled in accordance with the classifications in Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated (TSUSA) which replaces Schedule A. The TSUSA classifications in this report are arranged in numeric sequence.

SOURCE: The source of information for all of the imports included in this report is the import entry (various Customs forms), which importers are required to file with Collectors of Customs for each shipment arriving in the United States. Effective January 1962, statistical factors of country of origin, net quantity, value, and commodity classification are verified, or corrected as necessary, by Customs examiners on all formal consumption and warehouse entries. Information on warehouse withdrawals, though not subject to the examiner verification procedure directly, should be improved indirectly by the verification of the warehouse entries to which they correspond.

VALUE: The dollar value shown in the import statistics is defined generally as the market value in the foreign country, excluding United States import duties, ocean freight, and marine insurance.

UNIT CONTROL: In those instances where a TSUSA number has two units of quantity, value is presented along with quantity information for one of the units, followed by quantity information (without value) for the other unit.

LOW-VALUED SHIPMENTS: Data on formal entry shipments valued under $100 and informal entry shipments (valued not more than $250, by definition) are estimated on the basis of a one percent sample. These estimates are excluded from the detailed commodity statistics but are included in this tabulation under arbitrary TSUSA number 9999 500, by country of origin. The number of shipments included in the sample is shown in the quantity column for TSUSA number 9999 500. See the General Explanation in the front of Report No. FT 125 for a more complete statement on the handling of low-valued shipments.

TOTALS:

1. TSUSA number by unit control by country of origin.
2. TSUSA number by unit control.
3. TSUSA schedule (identified as group total).

*Embargoed cotton textile shipments are handled differently; further information on request.

MONTHLY IMPORT DATA

(U.S. IMPORTS: TSUSA BY COUNTRY)

RETURN TO: BUREAU OF THE CENSUS
FOREIGN TRADE DIVISION
WASHINGTON, D.C., 20233

DESCRIPTION

Effective with the statistics for February 1964, monthly import data in terms of individual Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated(TSUSA) commodities will be available to interested parties. The statistics will be in the form of reproduced copies of machine tabulations, showing TSUSA schedule by part, by subpart, by item, and by country of origin. The initial subscription period will cover the 11-month period--FEBRUARY through DECEMBER 1964.

HOW TO ORDER

Please indicate the commodity data that you wish to receive. The price for each subpart (or part where no subparts are listed for the part) is $8.25 for the subscription period, except for a few unusually long subparts. These are identified in the listing.

Fill in the information requested below. Return this order with a check or money order, in the total amount for all items requested, to the Bureau of the Census, Foreign Trade Division, Washington, D.C., 20233.
